

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A method of producing a zipper tape for a bag comprising the steps of:
feeding a base tape film with letters, marks, or colors printed or given thereon;
extruding a male strip and a female strip forming a mating section together respectively onto a surface of the base tape film fed out; and 5 thermally fusing and bonding the mating section to the surface of the base tape film.

2. A method of producing a zipper tape for a bag according to claim 1, the method comprising:

wherein the extrusion molding machines are used for producing the male strips and female strips respectively, resins having different colors respectively are stored in the 5 extrusion molding machines, and the male and female strips having different colors are formed by extrusion molding to form a mating section having the different colors.